

Anami Montessori School, in Charlotte, NC, is seeking an AMI-trained primary teacher for the fall of 2016. If you would like to be able to teach the way you were trained, this may be the school for you. Anami is a privately owned, AMI-recognized school with AMI-trained founder/director. The campus backs onto a 120-acre county park.

Anami has two primary classes and one 6-12 class, all well-established and led by teachers dedicated to carrying out Dr. Montessori's principles. After 30 years of serving children and families, and staying true to AMI principles, Anami is proud of being an intimate, nurturing community. Each fully-stocked classroom has an ample annual materials budget.

With a temperate climate, Charlotte is culturally diverse, within an easy drive of either the mountains or the beach, and is the hub of a major airline.

A successful candidate is hard working, has integrity, and should be able to operate in the classroom without undue supervision. Prior experience and a sense of humor are also a plus. We offer competitive salary commensurate with experience, retirement benefits, great working conditions, and a very supportive staff.

If you are interested in joining a committed AMI team, please send letter, resume and references to: Joan Horlbeck at joan@anamimontessori.org or Anami Montessori School, 2901 Archdale Drive, Charlotte, NC 28210.
